NEWS OF THE WEEK.

A brand new year.

Extreme cold on the continent of Europe.

Russia and Japan in serious financial straits as a result of the late war.

France and the Vatican still at war over the separation of church and state.

Four million people starving in China. A call to the world for help is being responded to liberally.

A. J. Cassatt of the Pennsylvania Railroad, dead; one of the most prominent railroad men in America.

Dividends and interest on bonds amounting to $100,000,000 declared and payable in New York January 1st.

Hearst in disfavor with New York Independence League, liable to lose support of that body, which nominated him for Governor.

Secretary Taft, in letter, says it would be foolish for him to refuse nomination for Presidency. Shaw, Foraker and Fairbanks also willing.

Schmitz and Ruef in San Francisco said to have had prospects for graft amounting to five million dollars within a year. Heney and Burns interfere.

The report of the Commissioner of Labor shows that San Francisco leads all the cities of the Union in number of strikes and in labor troubles generally.

Senator Beveridge, introduced by Wm. Jennings Bryan, addresses Nebraskaans, favoring annexation of Cuba, which he declares is only a question of time.

National Pure Food law goes into effect. Heavy penalties now may be imposed for sale of adulterated foods, wines, spices, &c., unless indicated as such by labels.

Massachusetts blue laws revived and enforced in Boston by Chief of Police at instigation of District Attorney Moran, defeated candidate for Governor of Massachusetts.

Owing to recent decision of Interstate Commerce Commission, railroads and telegraph companies to abolish (so they say) the pass system. Southern Pacific included.

Simon Guggenheim, one of the millionaire family composing the smelting trust, is the choice of the Republicans of Colorado to succeed Patterson in the United States Senate.

Appointment of James Bryce as Minister from England to Washington meets with great favor here. Author of "The American Commonwealth," a standard work on our government.

A terrible wreck of the B. & O. R. R. near Washington. Fifty lives lost and many people injured. Carelessness of either telegraph or engineer, or both, the supposed cause.

Anthony Comstock (who wants nude statues to wear clothes) will probably lost his position as post office inspector in New York by reason of fight made against him by American Art Association.

In the last quarter of the year just ended $100,000,000 has been added to the wages of railroad employees in the United States by voluntary action of the various railroad companies in raising wages.

Brownsville, Texas, shooting affair, which resulted in discharge from U. S. service of three companies of negro soldiers, thoroughly investigated. The President's action sustained by evidence of forty witnesses.

American Telephone and Telegraph Co., is the largest dividend payer of the above, with a distribution of $3,173,236 to stockholders, followed closely by New York Central and the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern.

THE WEATHER.

The snow which fell on the mountains and foothills on Monday resulted in giving this section of Southern California a temperature several degrees below the normal. On Wednesday morning thermometers in the lower parts of Glendale, indicated a temperature of 30 degrees at 6 a. m. Thirty degrees in itself does not mean any damage to citrus fruits, but that temperature in Glendale indicates the fact that some other sections where orange trees grow will be subject to a temperature five degrees lower and that some frozen fruit will be the result. It is to be hoped that the quantity of fruit so damaged will be very small, as the sale of even a very small quantity of frozen fruit on the Eastern market injures to a considerable extent the whole market for California oranges. While there is a good deal of talk about "unusual" weather, the fact remains that there are very few winters in which the thermometer does not indicate 30 degrees at least once during the winter.

If there was no better reason for making this fact public, it is sufficient that these occasional cold snaps find many of our houses unprepared with heating arrangements calculated to secure comfort during the prevalence of the "unusualness." As a matter of fact, it may be stated that people have actually left Glendale during the past few days who would otherwise have remained with us for a time at least because they could not secure accommodations where they could stay in comfort. This emphasizes the necessity for a hotel with modern conveniences, particularly heating apparatus, in Glendale. The opportunity for investment in such an enterprise should seem alluring to the proper person with capital.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING.

Mr. Boyd of the Valley Lumber Company reports that seventy-five new buildings have been erected in and around Glendale within the last five months. One-third as many are now in course of construction.

Mr. McCann is about to begin the construction of a reinforced concrete residence on the foothills, North Glendale, to cost about $15,000.

Plans and specifications for the Valley club house at Third and Brand Boulevard, have been prepared and the contract will soon be awarded. A picture of the proposed building appeared in last Sunday's Times.

E. M. McClure, late of the News, begins the erection of a residence to cost about $2500, east of the High School.

Mrs. Verdugo's fine residence on the Verdugo road and Tenth street is nearing completion. It stands near the site of the old adobe occupied by a member of the Verdugo family for many years until its desertion and demolition a few years ago. Mrs. Verdugo's residence will cost $4000 or more.

Mr. McLafferty is erecting a fine commodious house on the bench just north of the Cardinelli place on the east side of Verdugo road.

Mrs. Riem, who has just completed a residence on Fourth street, east of Verdugo road, is preparing to build another cottage in the same neighborhood.

Mr. Spencer Robinson, who purchased the property of C. A. Martin on Ninth street west of Verdugo road, is making extensive improvements and is said to be planning for the erection of another residence to be occupied by his mother.

Mr. Edward Shively, who recently sold his Glendale avenue place on the corner of Ninth street to Mr. A. W. Randolph of Burbank, is going to occupy a residence on Orange street near Footh. Mr. J. M. Shively also occupies a house on the same street.

Mr. C. G. Wilkinson has sold house and two lots corner of Tropic avenue and Cypress street to Mrs. Copdeville.

The Rawlins place on Third street west of Verdugo road, has been sold by the Overton Realty Co., to Mr. J. M. Benedict of Kansas City.

The same firm reports the sale of a lot in Orange Grove tract to Mr. L. G. Krukow of Tropic.

CITY TRUSTEES

The city trustees did not have their usual Wednesday evening meeting, there being no quorum present. It is understood that there were several weighty matters to come before the city fathers, and as City Attorney Baker could not be present, it seemed desirable to postpone action. There will probably be "something doing" next week.

THE RAILROAD SITUATION.

The Salt Lake Company has purchased of C. E. Thom si xlots on Glendale avenue, north of Third street. The supposition is that this property is secured for depot purposes.

Meanwhile both the Salt Lake and the Interurban companies are desirous of securing track privileges on the alley running northward from Fourth street just west of Glendale avenue. This alley being only twenty feet wide, it is understood that some opposition exists on the part of some of the property owners most directly affected, although the general disposition is to favor the railroads in any practicable way.

The projected plan of a railroad up Verdugo road, although apparently quiescent of late, has by no means been abandoned and is said by some of those supposed to be on the "inside" to be in a much more favorable condition than ever. Surveyors have been working lately along the Verdugo road near its junction with the Eagle Rock road, on what is said to be the "final survey." The right of way has generally been secured up as far as Fourth street and Verdugo road, from which point there are two or three proposed routes being discussed.

Meanwhile the loop project supposed to be backed by the Interurban company, appeals favorably to many of our citizens, as calculated to accommodate the community generally. This proposed route would be a continuance of the present Fourth street branch line, extended eastward to Verdugo road, thence south to Tenth street, extending thence westward along Tenth street and Moore avenue to Brand Boulevard.

As evidences indicating that this project is more than talk, is the fact that interested parties have taken options recently or actually bought the Smith Bro. property on Ninth street, near Glendale avenue, and the Runnice five-acre place running back up the hill on the south side of Ninth street near Verdugo road.

One advantage of this scheme over a private right of way project would be the fact that the streets would not of necessity have to be widened, and the trustees would probably, if a franchise should be granted, require the placing of rails flush with the grade of the streets, with such other regulations as would be necessary to remove the objections which naturally may be urged against a railroad on streets of ordinary width.

Contractor Mock, who has been awarded the contract for the grading, oiling and sidewalking of Glendale avenue from First to Sixth streets and of Fourth street from Glendale avenue to Brand boulevard, will sign up this week and proposes to begin work within a few days thereafter. Several other propositions for similar work on other streets are talked of and will materialize soon.

To the Patrons of the News

We greet you with a Happy New Year; and to this community in which the NEWS is established, we believe that one does not need to be a prophet nor the son of a prophet, to promise abundant prosperity during the year that has just been ushered in. All signs indicate a great development in the immediate future, of all this portion of the great San Fernando Valley, and of Glendale in particular.

It is too much to expect, meditating upon the frailty and too often the perverse foolishness of human nature, that our progress will be smooth; and unbroken by an occasional jolt as we pass along; but we believe that it is written in the Book of Fate that Glendale will prosper in the next ten years beyond the experience of the most sanguine among the "Builders of the West" who are accustomed to examples of phenomenal progress.

In this development the NEWS hopes to play well its part; and to assist in this high endeavor, we ask the help of every resident in this community and of those who have made investments among us, although as yet they are prevented by circumstances from being numbered among our resident fellow citizens.

The editors of this paper are ambitious to represent and work for Greater Glendale—not alone for that circumscribed area bounded by the limits of the incorporated city—but for all the neighboring settlements that are willing to work with us, from San Fernando to Garvanza and from the Sierra Madres to Los Angeles! In doing this we shall endeavor to deal justly with all sections and with all people; or in the classic Rooseveltian phrase, to give everybody a square deal!

We have seen this valley evolve from the sagebrush to its present stage of development in spite of many obstacles. Too often its progress has been retarded by a petty spirit of local prejudice which prevented the attainment of the best results; but we are getting too large for any further exhibition of petty jealousy; and while we may expect to suffer somewhat from growing pains, we should no longer tolerate that spirit which tries to build up one section at the expense of another.

That was a very good motto of the Three Musketeers: "One for all, and all for one."

Immemorial custom can give sacredness to almost anything and we accept a great many things handed to us by our provident ancestors, at rather more than their full value. Some of us have recovered by this time from our celebration of the advent of the new year; and possibly there are those who fancy that New Year's day is an actual anniversary of the very first day of the year One. It comes about as near being that, as do any of our anniversary of days and dates, sacred and otherwise. It came to us from the Romans; and all the various modes of celebrating it, including the feasting, the giving of gifts and the making of calls, are survivals of old Roman customs. Caesar seems to have started the job of making our present calendar; and it is said that for lack of other past-time he used to sit up nights punching holes in it. There in a suspicion that New Year's day came more than once a year in Caesar's time, and he is said by historians of the romantic school, to have originated the proverb, "It's never too late to mend;" for after mutilating the thing of his own creation, he would have spasms of remorse, and spend other nights in patching it up. When Caesar started to catch an early morning train, it was his habit to look at his watch as he rushed toward the depot, and if he saw that he was late, he would simply wind up his timepiece and the calendar, add another day to the year and get to the depot in time to swallow a doughnut and a cup of coffee before the train left. Caesar is said never to have paid taxes, and the First National Bank of Rome simply had to stop loaning him money owing to the recklessness with which he monkeyed with dates. The traveler in Rome today will be surprised to see on the tomb of Caesar this inscription: "I care not who may make the laws of the people, if I may make their dates."

But it is a good thing to resolve at the opening of the new year, that the old having passed away, the new shall be something better. It is an excellent starting place; and the good resolutions made by a man to himself, deep down in his nature where dwells the soul of him, shall not fail to have an influence that will build him up and bring into active being so much the sooner, that divinity that dwells within him. As

"It is better to have loved and lost, Than never to have loved at all;"

so it is better to have tried the higher way, tho with feeble steps in the darkness, if only for a moment, than never to have tried at all!

We may think, perhaps, that it is a good resolution writ only in water, but who among us in his wisdom dare say that it is not a spark that has flown upward and tipped with immortal fire the pen of the recording angel!

Real Estate Bought, Sold, and Exchanged. Office at Fourth and Glendale Avenue.

There is a way of lying while telling the truth and per contra. And there are many who do not understand the diversities of soil and climate which are to be found in this immediate neighborhood. But a wise providence has counterbalanced the good and the bad, that there may be a large proportion of the former and just a little of the latter attached to any particular place in question. Take for instance the wind and the frost—neither of them desirable in large doses, have you ever considered how the one affects the other? The higher and most exposed localities in this section, are more free from frost than the low lying portions of the valleys where the air is less liable to be in motion. So it follows that one spot may be favored by being more free from frost than another, but that the latter reaps its compensation by being exempt from the stiff trade winds which are objectionable to many people. The skillful use of these two facts enables that unhappy individual—the "knocker"—to do effectual work sometimes, not by statements that are untrue necessarily, but by the suppression of others equally truthful.

PUBLIC LIBRARY PROSPECTS.

In entering upon the coming year it is well to pause and look backward before going forward in order to obtain as general and comprehensive a conception of the work by the Glendale library as possible.

The library was opened ten months ago under the auspices of the Tuesday Afternoon Club with a traveling library of fifty volumes sent out free of charge from Sacramento. These libraries have been exchanged for other fifty volume libraries as the demand required.

To this nucleus have been added by the generous gift of our interested citizens one hundred and ninety-eight volumes of mostly high class reading matter, comprising books of reference, works of science, religion, poetry, fiction and miscellaneous matter besides many hundreds of magazines. Over one thousand magazines, alone, have been issued to the one hundred and thirty-two borrowers during the ten months.

The library room has been furnished with tables, chairs, bookcases, curtains, pictures and rugs of the Tuesday Afternoon Club and Glendale friends.

The rent of ten dollars per month has been raised by subscriptions from our business men. Less than five dollars, aside from janitor work, has been expended in the running expenses of the library, as all the attendance of from six to twelve hours per week has been given by a few interested parties.

While the membership list includes business and professional men, and women, a large percentage of the readers are school children, which seems the most encouraging feature of the undertaking, as children, who form the habit of frequenting a library and feel confidence in selecting good books either for study or recreation, are, by the very surroundings alone, elevated, and educated and better equipped and fortified for life work.

One small boy of ten inquired for Holmes' Poems, the attendant suggested something which she considered rather better adapted to his age, but he stated in a manly and intelligent way that they were studying Holmes at school and Holmes' Poems was what he wanted. Many other young people display the same capacity of knowing what they want. The Glendale public schools are doing more than even thoughtful people have any idea of in fostering this capacity for the intelligent selection and use of books.

Glendale's population is much above the average in culture and education and no doubt it is the wish of every resident to increase our population with refined and intelligent people. Undoubtedly a library in a place is, next to churches and schools, one of the most distinctive marks of these desirable qualities and would have one of the most telling effects on prospective home seekers of the sort we desire.

In continuing the library work the coming year there are several points which must be considered: The library should be open at night for the accommodation of men and boys; the library rent must be raised for another year or a more permanent home provided; the library should be conducted by the city as a public library and thereby give prestige to the city and there should be a capable paid attendant.

Some weeks ago a number of communications appeared in the Glendale News in regard to a lot and building for library purposes and a gratifying number of citizens pledged ten dollars each to this end. The club ladies not wishing to act hastily in the matter and desiring to see the library become as is the custom in many cities, a municipal institution, approached the city trustees and gleaned that it was quite probable that a room for library purposes could be used in the prospective city hall. Pending future development, present needs exist and our generous citizens are asked to give a thought to the desirable library feature of the city in planning their coming year's disbursements and contribute ungrudgingly to the ladies, who do that rather disagreeable duty, the soliciting for the library, from necessity as thus far all the work connected with the undertaking has been carried on by them. Otherwise there would have been no library in the community.

LIBRARY SECRETARY.

A WORD TO THE WISE.

It is quite too bad that with all the fine improvements under way on C street, making of it one of the handsomest thoroughfares in the city, that electric light poles are being erected along the eastern side of the street. Electric lights in the homes on this street are badly needed, but if the poles could have been erected along the alley the beauty of the street need not have been impaired. It is a wrong step in the direction of beautifying Glendale to have unsightly poles so much in evidence.

The need of electric lights is recognized, but not the necessity of marring the natural beauty of such a street as this, which is rapidly becoming one of the finest in the locality. Many new homes of most attractive appearance have recently been complete, and more are to be built in the near future on this street. Ground is already broken for a splendid residence between Third and Fourth streets, and one of the handsomest homes in our city is soon to be built in the vicinity of Third on C.

With the fine walks and handsome shade trees along both sides of the street, and the very acceptable lawn improvements already under way, this promises to be one of the show streets of Glendale. If every resident in our little city evidenced the same pride and taste in lawn improvement and floral display as is already being shown, and with unmistakable signs of marked success, on C street, our town would be a beauty, and property values increased ten fold. A word to the wise is sufficient.

The Rev. S. L. Ward, at the Presbyterian church Sunday, delivered an excellent practical discourse appropriate to the new year, on the words of Joshua to the children of Israel: "Go over into the land and possess it." Attention was called to the fact that all of the promises to the Hebrews, made by Jehovah, have not as yet been fulfilled, and that the promises of the Lord to his people generally, imply the necessity for effort on their part, to enter into full possession. Many practical suggestions as to the means of better living, were made by the speaker. He called into question the so-called "improvements" in our modern methods, not decrying them or their proper use, but suggesting the possibility that we may be leaving some of the old-fashioned virtues in taking advantage of the machine-made conveniences. As, for instance, the ancient virtue of hospitality is in serious danger of becoming extinct, if we too generally avail ourselves of the convenient hotel, in preference to taking our friends under our own roof and serving them in the good old-fashioned way. Even in our funerals, there is a convenience in modern methods of PUBLIC INSTALLATION.

The public installation services of Unity Lodge, F. and A. M., at Masonic Hall last Saturday evening was a perfect success from every point of view. An appreciative audience of invited guests and members of the Masonic order filled the hall and remained until a late hour. An elegant carpet has recently been put on the floor, which makes this one of the finest lodge rooms in Southern California. The services were impressive and the charge to the incoming officers was delivered in excellent style by Mr. W. E. Rowley of Los Angeles.

After the program and installation Senior Warden Frank Albright, in appropriate words, presented to retiring Worshipful Master George U. Moyses, a beautiful Masonic seal ring, as a token of the appreciation of the members of the lodge for Mr. Moyses' excellent work in building up the lodge, which has only been established two years and has an active membership of over sixty. Mr. Moyses made a feeling response in expressing his appreciation of the valuable gift.

Mr. Hervey of Los Angeles made a most eloquent address, after which ice cream, cake and punch were served to the guests in generous measure.

The officers installed for the forthcoming year are:

Master, Wm. A. Thompson.
Senior Warden, F. E. Albright.
Junior Warden, Dan Campbell.
Treasurer, Asa Fansett.
Secretary, John McPeak.
Senior Deacon, Arthur Campbell.

Stewards, W. McFadden, A. W. Tower.
Tiler, J. S. Stine.

FACTS IN THE CASE.

Some people think that the trustees of our city are very slow in getting things done in the way of internal improvements.

A few words as to what has been done.

The first work necessary in street improvement must be grades. Grades must be made not on one block alone, but with reference to a drainage of the whole city. Establishing grades on one street would be an easy matter if it did not involve a consideration of grades on adjoining streets both above and below as well as cross streets along its whole length. Establishment of grades is foundation work. So far grades have been established on six miles of our streets at a cost of more than the county has put on the same streets in years.

Preliminary work has been done in the grading, rolling, curbing and sidewalk of 1½ miles of streets. Actual work will be begun on Fourth street within two weeks. On Glendale avenue and L street work will follow at once.

B street has a petition out for work over its whole length. C street is ready for the same kind of work. Fifth street will be improved before the winter is over. Work is going on on Ninth street, Eighth street and lower Glendale avenue under city supervision. Three months will begin to show what has been done. Stand by the trustees and the City of Glendale. Push with those who are working to build up Glendale. Don't knock, but help.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Mrs. Anna M. Randolph of Emporia, Kansas, arrived in Glendale last week and will spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. E. A. Hibben of North Glendale.

Miss Annie Augsburg of Tiffin, Ohio, and Mrs. Smith, with her son and daughter, of Chicago, are stopping at Mrs. Marsh's "Vert Mont" house, Fourth street, near Brand Boulevard.

Mr. Benj. H. Nichols has been appointed by Supt. Keppel to the position of school trustee made vacant by the resignation of Mr. George Byram. Mr. Nichols will serve until the expiration of the present school year.

Mr. T. W. Blackburn and wife of Omaha, Neb., are in Glendale for the winter, visiting Mr. W. S. Blackburn. Mr. Blackburn is a lawyer of Omaha, who visited Glendale last spring. He has property here and will probably build a residence soon.

Mrs. C. Mason and son from Illinois are spending some weeks in Glendale, stopping with Mrs. Clifford O. Mason, son-in-law of W. J. Jones. They express themselves as delighted with Glendale and Mrs. Mason contemplates investment and building here.

Mrs. F. C. Hoffman and daughters, Misses Alice and Eva, of Oakland, Cal., are visiting at the homes of Mrs. W. Wannemacher and W. A. Anderson of Glendale. They expected to arrive on New Year's eve, but on account of a wreck on the road were delayed 16 hours.

There was a watch meeting held at the residence of Mr. C. G. Wilkinson, Tropic, Monday night. While waiting for the advent of the new year, cards and refreshments were indulged in. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bullis, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Davenport and Mr. Niles of Walla Walla, Wash., who is visiting Tropic for the winter.

Mr. Harry Stock of F street has shown us the plans of a two-story apartment house containing four three-room suites. The building will be cobbled with cut stone trimmings, and erection will begin as soon as the stone, which has been ordered, arrives. The partitions will be of hollow tile, making the house practically fireproof. The plans were drawn by Mr. Theodore Hopping of Glendale.

The people of Glendale will regret to learn that Mr. C. A. Weidenfeller offers his beautiful place on Glendale avenue for sale, on account of the condition of Mrs. Weidenfeller's health, which necessitates a change of scene. They are planning to travel around California for a while and then go East to visit Mrs. Weidenfeller's parents. We hope that Mrs. W.'s health will improve so rapidly that it may not be necessary for us to lose them.

The Tropic Improvement Association will hold its regular monthly business meeting in Logan hall Wednesday evening. Business of much interest to Tropic will be transacted. A large attendance is desired.

The Presbyterian Sabbath school gave a very enjoyable entertainment Christmas eve. The tree, presented by Mr. Meeker of Glendale, was beautifully decorated. Santa Claus was generous and happy as usual, and the orchestra was fine.

The engagement has been announced of John Kirkham, Jr. and Miss Madeline Malcom, both popular young people of Tropic. It was suspected for some time by the most intimate friends of this young couple that they were engaged but not until early this week was it definitely known. Miss Malcom is a daughter of Prof. Malcom, who was principal of the Tropic Grammar school last year.

THE JAPANESE QUESTION.

We have had wars with Japan before—in paper—the most of which was tinted yellow and came from San Francisco. After the war between Japan and China, many of us really believed and some there were who felt impelled to prophesy that Japan, having beaten China, would be rather unpleasant to associate with in her self-satisfied importance, and would go around with a chip on its shoulder challenging the world to battle! But nothing of the kind has occurred, for the little brown men went on attending strictly to their own business. Then came the war with Russia; and after Japan's first victories, the same prophets told the listening world that the Japanese, flushed with their early and easy successes, would do all manner of things which they never did, for the bravery of her soldiers in the field was no greater than the moderation and broad-minded statesmanship displayed by her rulers.

In all the history of Japanese diplomacy since she first came to the front as a world power, her rulers have shown that they have been inspired with one idea, never lost sight of in all of their dealings with other nations, and that ruling motive has been to so act as to deserve and receive the friendship of the outside world.

The Japanese are a great people; possibly their rulers at times have dreams of the conquest some time of a friendly people four thousand miles across the sea; but until they at least begin to talk in their sleep, let us credit them with still being possessed of that wisdom, which, since their country emerged from the darkness of Oriental exclusion into the sunlight of civilization, has so evidently inspired them.

This agitation against the Japanese was started by the San Francisco Chronicle about two years ago, during the last session of the legislature. It was very apparent that the motive of it was to create a sale for the paper by pandering to a class which was represented by Denis Kearney nearly 30 years ago, when on the sand lots in San Francisco he was accustomed to declare on Sunday afternoons that "The Chinese Must Go."

Kearney prophesied at that time all manner of dreadful things that would occur in California by reason of the "hordes of pig-tailed Chinamen who are coming to our shores." But as any one familiar with the history of this coast for that period looks back over its pages, he does not encounter any record of the fulfillment of these dire prophesies. San Francisco does not represent California, and there is no popular demand throughout the state that the Japanese should be excluded or accorded fewer privileges than the people of other nations who are laboring with us for the upbuilding of the State. The sensational "special dispatches" which appear frequently in such papers as the New York Herald and the San Francisco Examiner and kindred publications, should be read with care if at all, the reader reflecting that the correspondents from whose fertile brains they emanate are probably more intent upon making a good story than upon presenting a "plain, unvarnished tale."

A Japanese anarchist in Berkeley, said to be in the callow years of early manhood, published in his paper of very limited circulation the other day, an anarchistic editorial denouncing the President of the United States and some others, and intimating that some thing dreadfully anarchistic should be done. The San Francisco School Board grasped at the article with the frenzy of a drowning man and waving it high in air, declared in a published interview by one of its representatives that "there, this shows us what the Japanese are up to," or words to that effect. The effort to misrepresent an entire nation by quoting the words of one miserable anarchistic citizen of that country as expressing the sentiments of its people, is so ridiculous as to have quite a contrary effect from the intended one.

Imagine the United States being held responsible for the ravings of a Patterson or Chicago anarchist, and the unfairness of it is manifest. The Japanese are among us upon our own invitation; we need them, and any discrimination against them on account of race is unworthy of the proper spirit of our institutions. There is no evidence produced by San Francisco to show that the few Japanese in the public schools there are contaminating the white children with whom they associate. They deserve to be dealt with as individuals, irrespective of race, creed or color. There is far more reason why the parents of the children of "Nob Hill" (that was) should object to their offspring being herded with the children from the "Barbary Coast," where color is largely a matter of soap and water.

HOW TO SET A HEN.

Mrs. C. D. Hubbard.

This article is for families raising poultry for their own use.

Now is a good time to hatch out chicks in order to have pullets that will lay when the old hens are moulting and eggs are commencing to go up in price, also to have broilers when they are at their highest price.

Choose a sheltered place where the land lies a little high for the box in which you are to make the nest; have a nice roomy box, take out part of one end enough so that when the box is turned over the nest the hen can walk in without having to stoop very much; bank the dirt up around the box well so as to keep out the wind and rain, also make a good roof that will extend at least twelve inches over all sides of the box to prevent the rain from running down the sides and into the nest. The nest and roof for the same can be made out of old dry goods and grocery boxes. Make the nest according to the size of your hen and make a round shallow hole in the ground, then line it with a little straw or leaves and it is ready for the eggs. The hen should be set on the eggs after dark and it is very seldom that a hen will refuse to set if set as above mentioned.

In selecting your eggs care should be taken not to put in eggs with rough ends or out of shape or with a ridge in the shell running part or all the way round the eggs or eggs that feel rough and chalky or thin shelled, as these kind of eggs do not hatch well; some will not hatch at all and pullets that are hatched from such eggs will most always lay eggs the same, only a little worse.

At this time of the year it is well to sprinkle one-half cup of luke warm water on the eggs every four days while the hen is setting, on the day before the chicks are to hatch the water should be used according to the weather—if it is very dry, use as above; if the weather is damp and wet a very little sprinkling will do. Keep a little run in front of the nest made of lath so that when the hen comes off of her nest she cannot stray away and that you may keep feed and water in the run for her. Wheat is the best thing for a setting hen and a little coarse sand or decomposed granite should also be kept in the run with her feed. Loosen up a little of the dirt in one corner of the runway for the hen to dust herself in.

The wife of Street Superintendent Sinclair has been very ill the past week, but we are glad to hear that she is somewhat improved at this writing. We hope for her speedy recovery.

As the NEWS goes to press there is coming down upon Southern California a rainfall that, as far as moisture for the coming year is concerned, means prosperity. Enough rain has fallen now to bring the total for the season up to near eight inches. Not for twenty years has any season that we remember started in so auspiciously.

A lady who is spending the winter "down in Maine" after many years' absence, writes to her friends in Glendale that the East has some advantages over California, but nowhere has she found a trolley car service that deserves to be mentioned in the same breath with the Huntington system in Southern California.

There is as yet no clue to the post office robber. Dr. Chase's horse, which was borrowed for the occasion, was found tied up on Buena Vista street, Los Angeles. A woman living in the neighborhood reports having seen a man tie the horse about 5 o'clock in the morning.

Beginning with the first of the year the Glendale Post Office is in the third class. It is to be hoped that patrons having post office orders to be cashed will now be able to get their money within a week or so after they receive their orders. Uncle Sam usually does business in proper style, but he ought to go out of the money order business if he can't pay orders on presentation.
